

BIOGRAPHY

One of the first members of the Abundance Team was Bill Redmond. Bill's official title for Transforming U's parent company, Veris Associates, Inc., is Director of Operations. However, Bill has a unique approach to business, and adopted The CORE Approach™ early on in its existence, and thus joined the Abundance Team to pursue the goal of helping others' realize that they CAN have the life they want.

Bill has a blended background of business and technical consulting experience and personnel management. This experience, combined with his firm belief in The CORE Approach™, creates a powerful combination of having the knowledge to get things done and the values and ethics to do it responsibly.

Bill's career history includes an education at Penn State University, moving on to a Master's degree in Business Administration from Saint Joseph's University, and has continued to build upon his strong educational foundations with both technical and process certifications from Microsoft, ITIL, and EMC² during his consulting positions in the last decade. In addition, Bill will soon acquire a second Master's degree, which will be in Information Systems from Penn State University.

Bill brings a passion for his work, a dedication to growth, and a commitment to help to his leadership role on the Abundance Team, and in fact, to everything he does. He is the father of three young children—Tyler, Julianne, and Jordan, and when he is not spending time with his wife, Robin, and family, you can find him at the gym or church pursuing an affirmation of maintaining a healthy mind, body, and spirit through action.
